You are invited to a river herring stakeholder workshop to gather your views on the future of river herring management in New England.

The University of New Hampshire will host a one day workshop on January 30 at the Urban Forestry Center, Portsmouth, NH.

Please join us to express your views on goals and objectives for the future of the river herring resource and management.

We encourage participation from anyone interested in the fate of river herring.

This workshop will be an opportunity to bring together practitioners, industry, and interested public from the New England region to explore future directions for river herring management and foster new collaborations. Through discussion in facilitated break-out groups, it will be an opportunity to express your views independent of the New England Fishery Management Council, Mid-Atlantic Fishery Management Council, and Atlantic States Marine Fisheries Commission process. Outcomes from the workshop will include a summary of findings, which will be made available to the public, provided to the management bodies, and inform our project by recommending how to improve river herring management coast-wide.

Please note that lunch and snacks will be provided. Please register to ensure that we have an accurate head count. Thank you.
